Myer Briggs Archetypes

- 8-16 User Archetypes like in Briggs Myer's test
- ~ 20 questions, we can add more later

4 base metrics (example taken from Briggs Myer):

Extraversion (E) vs. Introversion (I): Where you direct and receive your energy. Sensing (S) vs. Intuition (N): How you take in and process information. Thinking (T) vs. Feeling (F): How you make choices and conclusions. Judging (J) vs. Perceiving (P): How you deal with the outer world.

Onboarding and Personality System

- Initial ~20 question during user login to help understand the user's MBTI spectrum (E/I, S/N, T/F, J/P).
- Archetype and 12 labours mapping. Quiz results assign the user one of 12 Archetypes linked directly to one of the 12 Labors of Heracles.
- Align to the user's goal. For example, do they want to be a "productive introvert" or become an "extrovert"?
- FOCUS ON ONLY E/I FOR PROTOTYPE

Core Progression Loop

Users will be given a progression loop to follow:

1. Story / main questline, which should be created based on the user's onboarding quiz.
2. Challenges (please someone clarify what this means better).
3. Daily Engagement Cap: Users receive 1 daily quest to prevent burnout and encourage habitual return.

TERMINOLOGY

- Quests: Full Heracles narrative arc, challenge, and reflection
- Dailies: Global daily quests shared by MBTI type?
- Tasks: Daily micro actions that contribute to the full story/ labour of heracles.

It was either dailies or task completion that contributed to a player's login streak

FEATURES

Streaks, badges, friend progress feeds, and a Radar Chart visualizer to track development and personality traits over time

AI personalisation

Ai will personalise you

System Architecture

Frontend: JavaFX, low-fidelity and high-fidelity concepts

Backend: Java, JDBC, SQLite, possibly yaml

Miscellaneous Discussion

1. The Innocent — Capture the Ceryneian Hind Challenge: There's something you genuinely want (a person, a spot on a team, a creative goal) that can't be rushed or forced. Spend the week showing up for it consistently without demanding a result. Reflection: What are you chasing that needs steady patience instead of one big grand gesture? The Sage — Slay the Lernaean Hydra Challenge: Pick the assignment or problem that keeps multiplying every time you touch it. Stop, figure out the actual root, and solve that instead of firefighting symptoms. Reflection: Where are you working hard on the wrong part of the problem? The Explorer — Steal the Cattle of Geryon Challenge: Go somewhere unfamiliar alone this week — a society you've never tried, a part of the city, a class outside your degree. Reflection: What's stopping you from stepping outside your usual circle? The Outlaw — Steal the Mares of Diomedes Challenge: Push back on something unfair — a dodgy landlord clause, a group project freeloader, a rule that doesn't make sense. Challenge it properly, not just in the group chat. Reflection: What do you complain about but never actually confront?
2. The Magician — Clean the Augean Stables Challenge: Tackle the backlog you've been avoiding (inbox, laundry, overdue admin) by setting up a system that clears it, not just a one-off blitz. Reflection: What could you set up once so the mess stops rebuilding? The Hero — Capture the Cretan Bull Challenge: Face the thing you've been dreading head-on this week — the hard conversation, the exam, the gym session you keep skipping. Reflection: What have you been avoiding because it feels too big? The Lover — Obtain the Girdle of Hippolyta Challenge: Repair or deepen one relationship through honesty rather than avoidance — reach out to someone you've drifted from, or have the vulnerable conversation. Reflection: Where would openness work better than pride? The Jester — Slay the Stymphalian Birds Challenge: Break a stale routine that's dragging you down. Do something playful and disruptive that shakes you out of the rut. Reflection: What are you taking too seriously right now?

3. The Everyman — Capture the Erymanthian Boar Challenge: Solve a problem using what you already have — no new app, no expensive fix. Use your existing resources and the people around you. Reflection: What simple, unglamorous approach have you been overlooking? The Caregiver — Slay the Nemean Lion Challenge: Get through a tough stretch (deadlines, homesickness, burnout) and then share what you learned with someone going through the same thing. Reflection: How can something hard you survived become useful to someone else? The Ruler — Steal the Golden Apples of the Hesperides Challenge: Stop doing everything yourself. Delegate part of a group project or ask for help — but know which piece you have to own. Reflection: When should you carry it, and when should you let someone else? The Creator — Capture Cerberus Challenge: Finish and actually share something you've made — post the track, submit the piece, show the project. Face the fear of it being seen. Reflection: What are you keeping hidden because you're scared of the response?

1. User Takes A Quiz which will link to one of the twelve labours
2. From this you will be given daily tasks that match the labour
3. From these quests gain rewards (e.g. Badges, Streaks, Progress, Personality Values)
